A Letter from the Board President

The Board of Directors of Johnson County Library is committed to the single yet momentous goal of fulfilling the mission of the Library. Johnson County Library is an important and valued community resource. The Board strives to offer cogent and (hopefully!) inspired leadership to the County Librarian and his staff as they work diligently to serve the citizens of Johnson County.

This 2014 Annual Report shows the Library successfully supporting a growing and increasingly diverse County population with standard Library services as well as innovative programs and events. The Library also continues its broad and deep community engagement with significant outreach programs for students, senior citizens and incarcerated youth. The Library Board committed substantial energies to reviewing and approving the 2014-2018 Strategic Plan which specifically guides the Library in providing such services. Community input sessions, Library staff conclaves and consultation with County leadership and staff assure us we are responding appropriately to County needs.

2015 will see significant progress on key projects for the Library: renovation of Central Resource Library; installation of our first Lending Machine; development of a 20-year long-range plan for Johnson County Library. This work will benefit from the dynamic partnership of Johnson County government, the Boards of Directors of the Friends of Johnson County Library and the Johnson County Library Foundation, hundreds of community and Library volunteers, and the dedicated Library staff. It is an honor to serve in their company.

I respectfully submit this report on behalf of Johnson County Library.

Nancy Hupp
President (outgoing), Board of Directors
Johnson County Library

Johnson County Library provides access to ideas, information, experiences and materials that support and enrich people’s lives.
Google can bring you back 100,000 answers, a librarian can bring you back the right one. – Neil Gaiman

2014 proved to be one of the busiest circulation years on record for Johnson County Library. It was, as well, a year of planning and preparation for key Library initiatives. A new Strategic Plan was published, and we organized to launch a major renovation of Central Resource Library. We also received the assignment to prepare a comprehensive Library plan that would outline all levels of Library operations and facilities for the next 20 years. Although none of these is a small task, we enthusiastically put shoulder to the wheel to make our Library the best we possibly can.

Working closely with the Library Board, staff and community partners we published the much-anticipated Strategic Plan. The Strategic Plan gives us a framework wherein we review data and refine services to be responsive to the needs of the community. The Plan’s 3 Goal Portfolios guide development of Library services and resources geared both to patrons and staff.

Highlighting the EDUCATION portfolio, the MakerSpace continued to offer no-cost classes and workshops in high-end modeling software and 3-D printing, as well as in more time-honored craft technologies such as weaving. This successful program earned the Library a $75,000 grant from the Ewing and Muriel Kauffman Foundation.

The COMMUNITY BUILDING portfolio includes the Library’s partnership with the Positive Aging Coalition. A key PAC service provided through the Library is HomeConnect, serving patrons who are unable to come to the Library. The innovative program sends books and AV items directly to homebound Library patrons who do not have computer resources to utilize our broad selection of eServices. Our talented staff continues to host author events and book discussions, create personalized reading recommendations, and bring exciting and innovative cultural programming into our community.

An ongoing effort to cultivate CONVENIENCE includes providing robust wireless Internet connections at all 12 Library branches. Patrons of all ages bring their own devices to the Library to surf the Web, to manage stock portfolios and to access the Library eCatalog.

As 2014 drew to a close we prepared to launch a major renovation of Central Resource Library. The extent of services and our need to manage costs down necessitates our making much of Central “unavailable” for most of 2015. The 2016 ribbon-cutting will open a Library with more private study rooms, an enlarged MakerSpace and a new Carmack Community Room seating close to 200. All these features have been requested by our Library patrons, and we are more than pleased to be able to comply!

As Libraries evolve in the 21st century, we’ll keep our finger on the pulse of change to make certain Johnson County Library is operated efficiently and conveniently, continues to cultivate a robust collection and presents innovative programs bringing together patrons of all ages. This necessitates our assignment to develop a long-range master plan, to be published in Spring 2015. Many such plans are simply facility-based. We are, instead, moving forward to craft a plan that is patron-centered, based on where Johnson Countians live and how they use their Libraries. It’s exciting to imagine what a Library will look like in 20 years – we won’t have a clear idea until we talk with our patrons and civic leaders in the coming months. Stay tuned for the big announcement.

As ever, I am deeply appreciative of the talents and integrity of our Library staff. It is their commitment to public service that makes this Library a success.

Sean Casserley
County Librarian

We promise to nurture our community’s collective wisdom

Dear Library Patrons,

As I sat down to pen these reflections on the Johnson County Library Foundation’s work over the past year and look toward our year ahead, one word stood out in my mind . . . Noise!

Counterintuitive, I know, when describing the stately confines of the public library. But take it from me, the noise is a good thing and a sign of progress at your Johnson County Library and the work of the Foundation is contributing to that noise in many ways. The sounds of kids throughout our branches can be heard as they embark on a lifetime of reading through the 6 by 6, Ready to Read early literacy programs. This is an innovative approach to childhood literacy that was started right here in Johnson County and is being used in a large number of other public library systems throughout the state.

Take a walk through any of our 13 branches and you will hear the sounds of students working with tutors and in small groups, studying, writing papers and doing research with the assistance of the Foundation-funded programs Homework Help and Tutor.com. Outside of our branches you hear the voices of writers, poets and photographers whose art has been published in elementia, a collection of work put together by Teen Services and funded in part by the Foundation. An event held in February at Johnson County Community College brought hundreds of folks together to hear elementia contributors, as well as Naomi Shihab Nye, renowned poet and author.

Another kind of noise can be heard, and that is the hum of construction equipment at Central Resource Library. That is the sound of progress, as we are renovating for today and planning for tomorrow as we embrace the evolving role of the public library in our community. One of the highlights of the new and improved Central will be the Black & Veatch MakerSpace. This space will enable students and entrepreneurs alike to foster their creativity and experiment with new inventions. The Foundation and Black & Veatch are proud to be partnering to advance STEM education initiatives through the MakerSpace and hope that this facility will be a model for the nation.

Please join me in embracing our vibrant and active libraries by contributing to the Johnson County Library Foundation today. Your tax-deductible donation will help us continue the important programming that benefits so many students, scholars, artists and readers in our community.

Sincerely,

Jason Glasrud
President, Johnson County Library Foundation

The Johnson County Library Foundation's mission is to build an endowment for the Library's collection and secure support for key lifelong learning programs offered by the Johnson County Library.

A MESSAGE FROM THE FRIENDS

The Friends of Johnson County Library helped establish the Library more than 60 years ago. We are still going strong and continue to support the Library through advocacy, fundraising and volunteering.

The Friends, a separately incorporated 501c3, are the voice of the Library in the community. We advocate to elected officials, community groups and organizations about the importance of libraries and the value they bring to our community. The 1,000 dedicated Friends members work to make Johnson County Library one of the strongest and best libraries in the country. In 2009, we were named one the outstanding Library Friends groups by a committee of the American Library Association.

The Friends raise significant funds to support the Library and the Library Foundation. In 2014 we contributed almost $200,000 raised from our two Library bookstores, online sales, and the annual summer and fall sales. These revenues were generated from Library weeds and donations of more than 9,500 boxes of gently worn books and AV items totaling approximately 241,950 items weighing roughly 483,900 pounds! We estimate that more than 125,000 items per year flow through our sales and stores.

Library volunteers are essential to the Friends efforts. Thirty-nine specially trained volunteers log more than 8,100 annual hours at the Friends Sorting Facility. A crew of 250 volunteers, teens and adults alike, operate the bookstores and staff the book sales. These passionate supporters of the Library and its mission demonstrate their commitment every day, and the Friends couldn’t be more grateful for their energy and enthusiasm.

If you are reading this message in the Annual Report, you obviously have more than a passing interest in Johnson County Library. Bring that interest to active life – join the Friends! With your book sale purchase, your membership gift, your volunteer hours and your donation of gently-read books, you help make a good Library great.

We need Friends like you. Join online at www.jocolibrary.org/friends, at the used bookstores, by mail or at any Library location. Be sure to “friend” the Friends on Facebook.

Sincerely,

Kathy McGinley

SUCCESS STORIES

County Rebrand

Johnson County government provides a variety of valuable services beyond our beloved Library system. To help county citizens see the whole as greater than the sum of its parts, Johnson County Library and county departments adopted a new unified look highlighted by a brand new logo. The new visual identity features a modern font, an appealing color palate and a refreshed version of the iconic Kansas sunflower. In order to minimize costs, the Library is employing a staggered transition to the new branding as materials and signage are distributed or come to the end of their natural lifespan.

The New Jocolibrary.org

Thousands of hours of staff time and effort culminated in the debut of a redesigned Library website in the summer of 2014. Patrons received the new website well, enjoying streamlined navigation, a cheerful tone and optimized layout on any screen size. More than 65,000 individuals visited the new website the first full month after its debut.

Programming

Library programming took center stage in 2014, garnering national attention and providing county neighbors with shared experiences and entertainment.

• Sixteen-year-old patron Mason Wilde used the popular MakerSpace to 3-D print a prosthetic for his nine-year-old neighbor born without a fully-formed right hand. The heartwarming story spread quickly in February, earning media coverage locally and from numerous high-profile national outlets like People magazine, CNN.com and the popular design and technology blog, Gizmodo. The Johnson County Library Foundation honored Mason’s ingenuity and character with a 2014 Pinnacle Award.

• Approximately 1,200 people attended the 2014 edition of Johnson County Library’s Latino Festival, held for the first time at Central Resource Library. The added elbow room accommodated a book sale, bilingual storytimes and numerous other activities and performances. The successful event came to fruition with the hard work of 10 Library staff and 12 volunteers.
In 2014 Library staff began focusing the bulk of their programming efforts on quarterly themes designed to inspire, innovate and create a cohesive offering for the public. Programming for the year touched on themes such as Loss & Desire, The Art of Discovery and Beyond Skin.

In addition, a new monthly event debuted in the summer: Second Saturdays. The second Saturday of each month now boasts a variety of interactive programs across the system and for all ages. The series aims to make a trip to the Library a weekend tradition for all Johnson Countians.

Library Volunteers

The Library’s passionate volunteer corps increased to more than 1,000 strong in 2014 and again overwhelmed with their generosity. Volunteers donated 52,973 hours to the Library, also up from the year prior, and equaled 27 full-time staff. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, their economic impact for the year weighed in at nearly $1.2 million. Volunteers continue to be an indispensable part of Library operations, assisting in a variety of efforts from materials management to book sales to programming.
